

Lexus Carton - Business Engineering Management Science

Oct 5, 2023

Economic and Technology – Fall 2023

Prof. Scott Houser

- What question do you propose to answer? (one sentence)
  - How does fair use apply to parodies and satire?
- What does your question have to do with "economics and technology?" (one sentence)
  - Where is the line between transformative use and copyright infringement?
- Why are you interested in the question? (one sentence)
  - There are different ways to use a song or story line how far do parody artist have to go before it is copy write infringement?
- What do you know and/or what do you want to know? (one paragraph)
  - Every time there is a new pop culture media topic, like a movie or a celebrity, people always try to make fun of it in some shape or form. However, some may go as far to make another production, as in a similar version, of media. There is only so many ways to string a couple cords or make a color pallet. There are several parodies like media creates that brings the original media more attention, like Star Wars and Spaceballs, or when any cartoon alludes to the movie in their episode.